

Editorial

In this edition, Acta Scientiae brings nine scientific articles in Sciences Teaching and Mathematics Education.

As already informed, Acta Scientiae was approved to be indexed in the bibliographic database Scopus, one of the most important ones in the world!

In order to meet Scopus' high standards, we have decided on several amendments. Among other changes, as of this edition, Acta Scientiae will be published in English and, with this, all articles that are submitted in another language, if accepted, should send an English version to be published jointly.

Again, we ask our authors to pay strict attention to the Guidelines for authors, available on the Acta Scientiae website.

Acta Scientiae once more thanks all those responsible for the work developed and materialized in this edition, being always open to criticism, suggestions and comments, as well as new submissions of research articles in the area of Sciences Teaching and Mathematics Education.
